

Argentina Duck Hunting

Argentina's lakes, marshes and rivers are home to over 30 species of ducks, all completely different from North American species. They're such a "nuisance" that they're still poisoned in the rice fields. Hunters normally take 10-12 different species on a trip including Rosy-billed Pochard, White-cheeked and Brown Pintals, Southern Widgeon, Silver, Speckled, Ringed and Cinnamon Teal and a variety of Tree Ducks.

Argentina Duck Hunting is from blinds over decoys - It's Fant We can schedule pure Argentina Duck hunts if you like, but most clients prefer to combine them with other species; usually with our fantastic Argentina Dove hunting in Cordoba Province or Ducks & Geese in Buenos Aires Province. Argentina Duck hunting is available year-round in some areas of the country, but we shoot them from March to mid-September in several different areas. We shoot in Santa Fe Province where there's also some limited Perdiz shooting and fishing for Dorado, if you get tired of the Ducks. Here you're shooting in the rice fields or river delta's, depending on the time of year. You are limited to thirty (50) ducks per day. The hunting in Santiago del Estero Province can be combined with Perdiz, and fantastic Dove & Pigeon shooting. We also shoot Ducks in Buenos Aires Province in combination with super Perdiz shooting and incredible Goose hunting. You can shoot Ducks morning and/or afternoon, and you'll average 25 duck per shoot.

Each itinerary is design specifically for your desires and timetable. The following is a "pure Argentina Duck Hunting" itinerary for Santa Fe or Santiago del Estero Province. The shooting may include some Pigeons or Perdiz, depending on time of year & area. {mospagebreak title=Price List} Season: April to August.
